Jack Snowden, aged nine, has netted a £350 windfall for his school – Eastburn Infant and Junior.

Jack, of Dale View, Steeton, entered a wordsearch competition run at the Bizzie Lizzie's Group's three fish and chip shops in Skipton.

It was open to all primary school children, giving them an opportunity to win the cash prize to spend on equipment for their school.

Year 5 pupil Jack's name came out of the hat first and he received the cheque at school from Bizzie Lizzie's Group general manager Rebecca Lacy.

Jack and his mum and dad, Margaret and Chris Snowden, are now deciding how the money will be spent, most probably to provide new play equipment.

“I am sure they will choose something that is of benefit to a lot of children. Every little helps us,” said Eastburn Infant and Junior School head teacher Jan Elliott, who described Jack as “a very special character.”

Bizzie Lizzie’s Rebecca Lacy said: “We place special emphasis on nurturing business-education relationships that prove of benefit to children and young people across the region.”
